

My right to telephone privacy in my home should not be taken away by companies that have an established business relationship with me. Just because I do one form of business with them does not mean that I want them calling to sell me every other type of service or product they offer. I am opposed to weakening Indiana's telephone privacy law.